Dear Friends,

It's official now, the summer we never got is now ended. Thankfully it hasn't started snowing yet, but for the last couple weeks we have been watching the leaves start to turn. Just a little north of us they are well on their way to becoming a riot of colors. August slowed down for us somewhat, allowing us to catch our breath briefly and prepare for the fall activities. Through the end of the year I will continue to help out at Copper Country Bible Church. The mission board has decided to continue the work in Hancock, so I will be providing for pulpit supply while they are searching for a missionary to come up and pastor the church. Please keep the church and mission in your prayers that God will quickly lead them to His man for that work. I will be preaching there this Sunday and the last Sunday of September. The two other Sundays this month will be filled with special meetings. First, I will be preaching revival meetings at Cornerstone Fellowship Baptist Church. Those messages are going to be tightly focused on the gospel, so please pray with me for folks to be saved and for Christians to be strengthened in their walk with God. Then I will be heading over to Lake Ellen Bible Camp to speak at their fall men's retreat. The theme is "A Strong Man's Greatest Weakness". We will be exploring the life of Samson and some important lessons we can learn from him to help us be on guard against sin creeping into our lives. My prayer is that the weekend will be an encouragement to the men, both challenging their relationship to God and encouraging them to continue to move forward in service to Him.

In the last newsletter I mentioned the demise of my computer. Since that time, God has wonderfully provided and I was able to replace my laptop with a dandy. I have only had it a couple of days, and have been very thankful. I was able to get the features in it that I thought was needed to do the heavy graphic work, and I am pleased to say that it is exceeding my expectations. Praise the Lord that He provides so marvelously, even for something like a computer.

Ruth was rather disappointed the end of this summer in not being able to find blueberries. The weather just seemed like it wasn't right to help them grow. Then we were directed to an area where there were blueberries by the acres. Ruth, her mom and the kids were able to go out blueberry picking twice this last week and brought home more than two gallons of blueberries! Ruth enjoyed making jam for the first time. Truly we can taste and see that the Lord is good!

In Christ,

Dave Chambers
